THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Since our last issue, the vacancy which has existed in the King's Cabinet for several weeks, has been filled. Mr. A. Rosa is now Attorney-General. This gentleman is native born, and has gradually risen to the position he now occupies. He was educated at the Royal School, on leaving which, many years ago, he entered the public service in the Judiciary Department. After several years of honorable service in that department, he became attached to the Attorney-General's Department. Here he has also had the training and experience of a comparatively lengthy apprenticeship. He has been Deputy Attorney-General for a considerable period past. Mr. Rosa is now head of the department, and a Minister of the Crown. Probably no native Hawaiian is so well qualified to fill the position. We congratulate Mr. Rosa on his merited promotion, and entertain the hope that he will discharge the duties of the office in a manner creditable to himself and his country, and satisfactory to the general public.

HIS MAJESTY'S

Jubilee Birthday!

THE RECEPTION

The Firemen's Parade!

THE FIREWORKS!

Yesterday, His Majesty King Kalakaua's 50th birthday, was a public holiday, and was celebrated according to the previously prepared programme, published in all the local papers. The programme was well arranged and efficiently carried out. But little, if any, fault can be found with the execution of the plan. Everything passed off smoothly, pleasantly, and satisfactorily.

The celebration actually began on the evening of the 15th. The members of the Nihon Society appeared before the King at the Palace about 6 o'clock, and presented His Majesty with their congratulations and a very handsome calabash. A little later, F. P. Hastings, Esq., Charge d'Affaires of the United States Legation, tendered to His Majesty the felicitations of the President of the Great Republic. His Majesty's Prime Minister also proffered congratulations to the King, accompanied by a pair of beautifully polished elephant tusks mounted on an appropriate stand. At midnight of the 15th a Royal salute was fired from the Punchbowl battery, the summit of Punchbowl was ablaze with bonfires, rockets were sent up all over the town, church bells and the bells of the various fire companies rang out a tremendous peal, and for a half an hour or so the entire city was alive with noise.

Yesterday morning opened with fine weather. The sky was overcast, but no rain fell throughout the day. The streets were comparatively dry, but free from dust. Although rain threatened, it kept off until a little past dusk, when it fell in sufficient quantity to produce mud in the streets and some unpleasantness.

THE POLICE.

The first event on the programme of the day was the reception by His Majesty of the Police Force of the Kingdom. Shortly after 6 A. M., the Force, headed by the Marshal and Deputy Marshal marched to the Palace, and were received by His Majesty at the front entrance. The Marshal delivered an address expressive of congratulatory and loyalty, which was graciously replied to by the King. The Police then presented His Majesty with a book on a velvet cushion, containing a bank order for $570.

MINISTERS, JUDGES, ETC.

At 9:45 The King's Ministers, the Judges of the Supreme Court, the Governors, Nobles, Privy Counsellors and Members of the Legislature were received.

SOCIETIES.

After these, from 10 to 11 o'clock, came the following Societies:—Lilukalani Educational Society—first and second divisions—Nihon Society and Hokuono Society. These societies assembled at Washington Place, the city residence of H. R. H. Princess Liliuokalani, and marched in regular procession from there to the Palace, followed by the Royal Hawaiian Band without their instruments. The kahilis, the ladies' dresses, and the excellent order, all conspired to make this a very picturesque and pretty procession. The members of the various societies each carried in their hands suitable gifts for presentation to His Majesty.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR CORPS.

At 11:30, the diplomatic and consular corps arrived and were presented as follows: Major J. H. Wodehouse, H. B. M.'s Commissioner; Monsieur Henry Feer, French Commissioner, accompanied by Madame Feer; Senhor A. de Souza Canavarro, Portuguese Commissioner; Mr. Taro Ando, Japanese Consul and Diplomatic Agent, accompanied by Mrs. Ando; Mr. F. A. Schaefer, Consul for Italy; Mr. T. Rain Walker, Acting British Vice-Consul; Mr. H. F. Glade, Consul for Germany; Mr. F. P. Hastings, United States Vice-Consul General; Mr. J. H. Paty, Consul for the Netherlands and Belgium; Mr. R. W. Laine, Consul for Spain; Mr. H. R. Macfarlane, Consul for Denmark; Mr. C. A. Lee, Commercial Agent for China; Mr. Goo Kim, Assistant Commercial Agent for China; Mr. C. L. Wright, United States Consular Agent at Mahukona; and Viscount Tori and Mr. Fujigita, of the Japanese Legation.

GOVERNMENT OFFICERS AND HEADS OF BUREAUS.

Officers in the several departments and Government Bureaus next filed in. The Custom House guard consisted of nine men, followed by another detachment composed of Custom House officers, road supervisors, etc.

The Custom House employees presented His Majesty with a splendid cane of kauwila wood, with a gold mounted head bearing the Hawaiian Coat of Arms, and the motto "Ua Mau ke Ea o ka Aina i ka Pono" (In righteousness shall the nation be established). Landscape views in and about Honolulu are also engraved on the sides. A gold band also bears the inscription: "Presented to His Majesty Kalakaua I. on his fiftieth birthday by the members of the Bureau of Customs. Hon. John M. Kapena, Geo. E. Boardman, A. Fuller, W. Chamberlain, G. Markham, I. Q. Tewksbury, G. W. Miles, R. N. Mossman, G. Na-waakoa, H. W. Auld, O. Stillman, J. W. Robertson, J. Markham, J. Crowder, G. Parmenter, B. Whitney."

The Post Office clerks also presented themselves in a body. The officers and members of the Board of Health, under convoy of Mr. F. H. Hayselden, Secretary, marched in, two abreast, the secretary bearing a solid silver box, on a cushion of blue velvet which was presented by the clerk, Mr. F. J. Testa, while Mr. Hayselden read the following address:

To His Majesty King Kalakaua I.—Sire: Speaking in behalf of the officers and physicians engaged in the service of the Board of Health, I beg to offer our warm and loyal congratulations on the anniversary of Your Majesty's fiftieth birthday, and at the same time present for Your Majesty's acceptance a small cash box as an expression of our loyal devotion to Your Royal person.

We desire to rejoice with Your Majesty on this memorable jubilee celebration at the general welfare of the people, for although disease and death still claim their victims, we have reason to believe that general good health prevails and it shall be our constant aim and purpose to so endeavor in the exercise of our several duties that the liberal means provided by the Legislative Assembly shall be made most available for the promotion of the public health, so that general well-being shall prevail, and Your Majesty's noble motto of "Houou Lihui," or "Increase the nation," shall become a happy realization under Your Majesty's beneficent reign.

God bless Your Majesty.

FRED. H. HAYSELDEN, Secretary.

Honolulu, November 16, 1886.

SCHOOLS, SOCIETIES AND CHURCHES.

Among the most imposing of the processions which filed into the Palace grounds during the afternoon, were those of the Houou Lihui Society, the Lahui Kaunakapili, the Kaunakapili congregation, the Houou Lihui Male Kanalu, the Puuwa Lokahi Association, and the Pooa Association. Nineteen very small children, about 125 native women, nearly all costumed in white and most of them waving pretty kahilis, the rear being brought up by 12 boys and 25 men, was a very fine spectacle. Another society entered with 24 kahilis and consisting of women and girls, each one holding in her hand what seemed to be a piece of coin, and also presented a very fine appearance. The rear of one of these companies was brought up by a native bearing aloft a cane stalk, 12 feet long with 37 joints, with a label bearing the inscription

"The Hawaiian Lihui Kalakaua na Joseph M. Kapena, on behalf of the Houou Lihui Society, Honolulu, Nov. 16, 1886, to His Majesty King Kalakaua." (A gift to King Kalakaua by Joseph M. Kapena, on behalf of the Houou Lihui Society, Honolulu, Nov. 16, 1886, the great jubilee.) The boys of the Houou Lihui School, coming on the ground in regular marching order, formed very pretty processions.

The Polukaina girl's school, marshalled by Miss Corney and the assistant teachers, made a splendid appearance. One of the girls walked in advance of the procession, and carried a present from the school, consisting of a silver fork and spoon in a case of silver and curly maple covered with gold colored plush, with His Majesty's initials, monogram and crown inscribed, and also a handsome banner birthday card. The Hawaii Fire Engine Company came in, led by the Reformatory school band. The Fishermen's Society made an imposing appearance. Borne in with a flag, with the words, "Ka Hui Makeke Nalaniehiki" (The Seven Kings' Market Society), while eight stalwart natives bent under an extemporized hand-barrow bearing an enormous calabash over which was a festooned dome shaped canopy, from the center of which hung a large portrait of His Majesty, and in conformity with an ancient Hawaiian custom said to have some special reference to the reigning family, two of the processions bore large kukui nut flambeaux wrapped in ti leaves. These torch-bearers also stood, one at each corner, at the foot of the Palace steps until the torches burned out. The parade of the Royal School was superb. The boys, in uniforms of white, striped with red, headed by two drummers, marched in eight abreast, to the number of 285.

THE PUBLIC.

At a little before 3 o'clock, a miscellaneous throng of all nations, grades and conditions was admitted to view the gorgeous interior of the Royal residence. For the greater part of an hour might be seen respectable citizens in full dress, Chinamen in their blue dimit, natives and foreigners in a thousand styles of outfit, marching up the steps, some to pay their respects to the King and Queen, and the rest to gaze and have to say that once in their lives they were inmates of a palace.

ILLUMINATION AT THE PALACE.

At night-fall, the verandahs around the Palace were lit with colored lanterns, fixed at short intervals along the railings, and with the decorations, gave the building a very pretty and artistic appearance. Promptly at 6:30, the electric light was turned on. The apparatus had been placed in position, and a preliminary light up was made on the previous night. On three sides of the Palace, in the lanai, and at the entrances from Punchbowl street and Palace Walk, and also outside the closed gate on King street, ten burners of 2,000 candle power were fixed. The electric light at once threw a flood of radiance over the Palace and grounds. It was turned off, on the arrival of the firemen and while the fireworks were in progress, and turned on again afterwards. This arrangement, it seems, has given currency to a false rumor that the light proved a failure by going out.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE.

From what is known of the Honolulu Firemen, whether on duty or holiday, it would be quite enough to say that they mustered for a grand procession, to convey the idea that the affair was a splendid success. On this occasion, they excelled themselves. The parade was literally, as well as figuratively, one of the most brilliant pageants ever seen in this city. The decorations of the engines and hose carts were on the most elaborate scale. The procession, starting from the bell tower, filed through the principal streets, the line of march being heralded and illuminated all the way with the roar of bombs, the flare of torches, the flying of rockets and bangs, the blaze of Roman candles, and the flashing of many colored lights. The members of China Engine Company distinguished themselves by each man swinging a big Chinese lantern. The procession was headed by the Hon. John Cummins, Marshal of the Day, on a grey charger. The music was ably supplied by the Royal Hawaiian and by the Reformatory School bands. A halt was called in front of the palace where His Majesty was seated on the verandah. Three rousing cheers were given, and Chief Engineer Charles B. Wilson stepped forward and presented the following address:

Your Majesty: On behalf of the Honolulu Fire Department I have the honor and pleasure, as their elected Chief, to present their loyal homage and congratulations upon this auspicious occasion. As subjects of Your Majesty, we renew the assurances of our loyalty and fraternal regard, for we can never forget that the Honolulu Fire Department was honored by your active participation and membership. As King, we salute you, and pledge our lives to your service. As a member of the Honolulu Fire Department, we also salute Your Majesty with becoming respect, but with a feeling of fraternity which cannot be broken. On this, the fiftieth year of your life, with half a century of joys and sorrows behind you, I wish you, on behalf of myself and my comrades of the Honolulu Fire Department, another half century of life and authority. In saying this, I pray that the nation may prosper under your guidance, and that peace and good government may ever prevail. In conclusion, the Honolulu Fire Department again tenders to Your Majesty their loyal homage and grateful respect, coupled with the hope that your years may be prolonged, and that your influence and power at home and abroad may grow in the future for your honor and your Kingdom's welfare.

His Majesty in reply said that the pageant of the firemen was very gratifying to him. He reciprocated the good wishes of the department, and was satisfied that the evidences of efficient organization before him would not be wanting in the future. During the halt in front of the Palace, the scene was one of unique and weird splendour. The gorgeously decked and lofty Palace front, enlivened by the smiling faces of finely dressed ladies looking down from the verandahs; the flying of rockets; the glare of hundreds of torches; the flash costumes of the firemen in their red shirts; the smoke from torches and rockets and many colored flames, hanging low in the damp air; the faces of the concourse of spectators gathered from all the earth and illumined by the flash of the lights; all combined to produce a picture the outlines of which can never be obliterated from the memory of those who witnessed it.

The firemen were followed in their parade by the boys of the Royal School, bearing torches which contributed not a little to the brilliancy as well to the extent of the pageant, the whole being estimated at about half a mile in length. Having made the circuit of the Palace three times, the companies marched out and returned to their respective engine houses.

The fronts of the engine houses were all but covered with lanterns, mottoes and luminous devices of all kinds. The bell tower and hall of No. 2, in particular, was an exhibition of itself. The front of the building was a pyramid constellation of colored lights, tastefully arranged, the colors blending in a highly artistic manner. The other engine houses, together with the front of the Pacific Hose Company's building, were decked after the same fashion as No. 2, though not quite so elaborately. Strings of lights also were run up each side of the flag-staffs, and were visible at long distances. Altogether, the firemen are to be congratulated on the splendour of their demonstration.

THE FIREWORKS.

The fireworks, at the Palace, were generally voted the most magnificent display of the kind ever seen in this city. It is impossible to do justice to the display in a newspaper report. The roof of the Palace was selected as the place from which they were mostly set off. The whizz of rockets ascending high into the air, the blaze of Roman candles, the glitter of calcium lights, and the bursting and flying of every description of pyrotechnical material, together with the luminous mottoes and devices exhibited on a frame erected for the purpose, on King street in front of the Music Hall, held the Royal Family with their guests, as well as the large crowds of persons assembled at various points on the grounds, spell-bound in silent admiration for probably an hour or more. The fire-works being over, the electric light struck up again, whereupon the BULLETIN reporter left, and retired to the land of nod. The Royal Hawaiian Band was stationed in a fine pavilion on the grounds, and played at intervals, throughout the day. The band had been on duty from midnight until about 3:30 in the afternoon. The music discoursed was of the usual character, which the people of Honolulu are well accustomed to enjoy at the hands of Bandmaster Berger and his boys, that is, superb.

DECORATIONS.

The following gentlemen were yesterday honored with decorations by His Majesty the King:—Brigade Major A. B. Hayley and Major W. H. Cornwell, Knight Companions of the Royal Order of Kapiolani; His Excellency Hon. Antonio Rosa and Hon. J. L. Kaulokou, Grand Officers of the Royal Order of Crown of Hawaii; Major J. D. Holt, Quarter-Master General, S. Nowlein, Hon. Julius Kane, Mr. David Dayton and Mr. S. W. Wilcox, Knight Commanders of the Royal Order of Crown of Hawaii; Mr. Geo. C. Beckley, Adjutant Isaac Kaiana and Capt. Wm. Tell, Knight Companions of the Royal Order of Crown of Hawaii; Mr. Henry Berger, Knight Companion of the Royal Order of Kamehameha I.

Unger—3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 5, 3, 3, 5, 41.
The shooting being over the Rifles shouldered arms and marched to town. They were taken to the Hawaiian Hotel, where at the invitation of Captain V. V. Ashford, the boys sat down to a lunch in the dining room. The health of His Majesty was proposed by Captain Ashford, and was heartily drunk by the company, followed by three cheers and "He is a golly good fellow." During the lunch the medals were presented. The first prize, a gold medal, to First Sergeant Pratt, and the second prize, a silver medal, to drum-sergeant King. Cheers followed and calls for speeches. Members of the H. R. A. joined in with the Rifles, and merriment ran high. After dining, the Rifles, under command of the First Sergeant, marched to the armory and were dismissed.
